RMA Resolutions Database Now Available

RMA's newly redeveloped Resolutions Database is now available at RMAAlberta.com. RMA recognizes the important role the database plays in making available resolution information to members and the public, and in supporting the resolution-writing process. The database includes active and archived resolutions, and is searchable by year, resolution sponsor, status, and keyword.

Although the Resolutions Database is now available, the resolutions page on RMA's website is still under construction. Until the resolutions page is complete, please access the Resolutions Database through this link, by entering <http://rmaalberta.com/advocacy/resolutions-database/> into your browser window, or by visiting RMAAlberta.com and searching for "resolutions database".

Other resolution resources such as a resolution template, resolution-writing tips, and resolution FAQs will be available on the RMA website soon. In the meantime, please contact RMA Policy Analyst Wyatt Skovron to access any of these resources.
